GERMANS REACH LINE OF DEFENSE

Prepared in Advance, They Are Ready to Renew Battle Though Outnumbered by Allies.

HUNDREDS OF PRISONERS

Reports of Capture of General Von Kluck and 25,000 German Troops Generally Discredited.

PATHFINDER IS AVENGED

German Naval Cruiser Hela is Sunk by British Submarine—Crew Escapes.

(By United Press.)
London, Sept. 15.—The German troops have now reached their line of defense along the river Aisne in France prepared in advance and are ready to renew the battle. They are outnumbered by the allies and critics believe the stand will be temporary.

The reports of the capture of General Von Kluck and 25,000 of his picked troops are discredited at the war office. The French war office would have reported it had it been true, is the belief.

Hundreds of prisoners have been taken but totals are not available.

The official war bulletin this afternoon said the allies successes continued.

The war bureau confirmed the report that the army of Crown Prince Frederick Wilhelm has now been driven farther back and is occupying a line on the Aire river, 16 miles northwest of Verdun.

The small protected cruiser Hela used as a patrol scout by the German naval authorities has paid for the British patrol cruiser Pathfinder. Like the latter the Hela has been made the victim of a submarine. While the location of the sinking is not admitted it is understood that it was off Heligoland and that the Hela sunk in ten minutes. Unlike the Pathfinder, however, the majority of the Hela's crew were saved. It is stated that the British submarine escaped.

The Hela was a light protected cruiser built in 1895 and rebuilt in 1910. She was 328 feet long, 36 feet beam, had a displacement of 2,040 tons and carried a crew of 178 men. Her batteries comprised four 15½ pounders; six 6-pounders; 2 machine guns. She had a speed of 20.5 knots.

PREPARING FOR A STAND

Germans Are Collecting Struggling Forces From Northwest.

Paris, France, September 15.—The Germans are collecting their struggling forces from the Northwest and preparing for a stand east of Amiens. They are on a semi-circular line that takes in St. Quentin, St. Ouse and Vervine on their right and then swing rapidly southward toward Reims and Aisne river lines to the neighborhood of St. Menchould, which was yesterday abandoned by the crown prince's army and everything pointed today to a renewal of serious fighting. The Germans are making their stand in positions from which only a week ago they drove the allied armies. If they

LEAVES FOR MAIN ARMY

German Division Holding Alost, Belgium Evacuates the Place

(By United Press.)
Ostend, Sept. 15.—The German division which has been holding Alost has evacuated the city in order to proceed to the aid of the main German army which is now being hard pressed by the Belgians. It is believed here that the Germans will be compelled to evacuate Brussels in the very near future. Already the troops that had been posted in the vicinity of the Belgian capital have left and there remains only a comparatively small body.

CLAIMS VICTORY IN RUSS POLAND

General Von Kluck Reports Complete Defeat of Four Corps and Two Divisions of Reserves.

Heavy Fighting Still Continues in France With Result Still in Doubt.

(By United Press.)
Berlin, (By wire) Sept. 15.—The general staff today officially announced that heavy fighting continues in France with a general result still in doubt.

General Von Hindenberg reports further sweeping victories over the Russians in Russian Poland. His official report to the emperor stated that the Russian army made up of the second, third, fourth and twentieth corps and two reserve divisions of infantry and five cavalry divisions had been completely defeated.

Constantinople advices state that the wireless has been removed from the British embassy there.

The only statement dealing with the general war situation in the west obtainable at the war office today declared that the general fighting still continued with no decisive results. The efforts of the French to break through the German lines and isolate some of the armies have failed, it is announced. No details of the general fighting at any point are obtainable.

It is announced in east Prussia the German advance continues and the Russians have not been driven back at points across their main frontier. The German forces have taken many prisoners and numerous cannon.

The additional lists of casualties as published containing no new names of high officers killed.

NOT COMPELLED TO RESIGN

Mark Storen May Remain on Democratic State Committee.

(By United Press.)
Washington, Sept. 15.—Mark Storen, United States marshal for Indiana, will not be required to resign as a member of the Indiana Democratic state committee representing the third district, but he must not act in any way that will bring scandal on the public service. This is the gist of a decision by the department of justice called forth by a letter from Storen asking the department to decide whether he should resign.

AUSTRIANS ARE CAUGHT IN TRAP

Russians Have Them and Certain German Reinforcements Penned up and Retreat Cut Off.

HUNGARY NOT TO BE INVADED

Russia Decides to Keep All Troops Intact and Prepare For Capture of Berlin.

(By United Press.)
Petrograd, Sept. 15.—The Russian forces now have the Austrian left wing, including certain German reinforcements, penned up in an angle formed by the junction of the Vistula and San rivers. These troops were defeated and driven to this point and it is stated they will be unable to avoid either surrender or complete destruction. It is claimed that the Austrians are completely surrounded by cavalry in front and strong Russian cavalry and infantry behind and that the Austrians are on marsh land.

That the invasion of Hungary by a strong Russian body has been definitely abandoned was intimated here today. It is realized by the Russian general staff that the German resistance will be very strong and it has been definitely decided that the entire Russian field army first and second line troops, will be retained for the capture of Berlin. The czar is determined that Berlin shall be taken in if it costs the Russian empire its entire fighting strength. His former friendship for the kaiser has been replaced by an enmity which court officials say is the most bitter the czar has ever indicated against anyone. He is determined his forces will take Berlin and he will ride into the city at the head of his troops.

Because of this it is officially stated there would be no side trips. The crown land of Bukovina was taken, and the passes through the Carpathians have been held purely as defensive measures. The Russians intend to utilize part of Austria for the passage of their troops toward Berlin but it is unlikely that any real attempt will be made to invade Hungary proper. The Serbian troops may do so and will be aided by the Russians in every way, but the main Russian columns after the Austrian army is completely disposed of, will be sent directly across Germany if possible.

There is a growing feeling here that Austria will soon admit her inability further to continue the war. The fact that her main army has been crushed and its capture is considered a strong possibility, means she will soon be no longer an active factor in the war.

According to the officials in the war office the Russians are again assuming the offensive in East Prussia. First line troops have been withdrawn from the Austrian theatre of war one have been sent to the aid of General Rennenkampf's columns which have been hard pressed. It is understood, here, however, that these operations are intended chiefly to hold the Germans in East Prussia in check and prevent them being withdrawn to go to the assistance of the Austrians.

It is stated that the great mass of the Austrians who escaped slaughter in the fighting that has been in progress in eastern Galicia from the Dnieper to the Russian Poland have reached the west bank of the San river, and are reforming. They will endeavor to hold the great fortress of Przemyel and the railway line extending northward to Jaroslavl. Przemyel is a first-class fortification

VALUATION OF PLANTS TAKEN

Men Here to Inspect Gas Companies Indicate Petition For Increase Will be Heard Shortly.

COMPANIES EXPECT TO WIN

Party of Six Sent by Public Service Commission Begin Valuation of Central Fuel First.

Indication that the Peoples Natural Gas company and the Central Fuel Gas Co., which have petitioned the state public service commission for an increase in the price of gas from fifteen to forty cents a thousand cubic feet, will get an early hearing is found in the fact that the commission has sent a number of men here to take the valuations of the plants as is always done in cases filed for increase in the price charged by public utilities.

The men arrived yesterday and immediately set about their task. They are headed by A. H. Worsham and the others in the party include E. C. Buick, R. H. Tuhs, H. B. Heign, William G. Beatty and J. W. Hatch.

They will appraise the Central Fuel Gas company first. The men will go over the whole system, inspecting the wells and the lines so as to get an exact physical valuation to be used by the commission in determining whether or not the two gas companies, which are limited by city ordinance to a charge of fifteen cents, are entitled to more money for their product.

The fact that the appraisers are here reveals that the petitions of the two gas companies will be taken up shortly. Once the cases are called, it will not require much more than an hour for the commission to reach a decision. The petitions are filed as separate cases and will be heard as such.

The officials of the two gas companies feel certain that their requests for a rise in price will be granted. That the increase will be granted before the cold months when the most gas is consumed seems almost certain in view of the fact that it is not long after a physical valuation is taken before the commission hears the case in question.

The commission has already decided that it has the power to raise the rates of public utilities, the officials of the gas companies point out. This was demonstrated by the decision in the Greencastle water and light case, made by the commission. In this instance, the commission granted the petition of the public utility for an increase in rates. This was a mooted question before the commission acted as its own tribunal and went ahead and raised the rates.

It is a mooted question yet, for that matter. It is still a question in the minds of many attorneys whether the public service commission law, passed by the last legislature, empowers the commission to raise the rates of a public utility. The question had never been put to the test until the Greencastle case arose. Previous to the decision of the commission, Attorney General Honan made a ruling in which he held in substance that the commission did not have the power, under the law creating the commission, to grant an increase in rates to any public utility. But the decision of the commission in this respect will rest so long as no one else sees fit to test its constitutionality in the courts.

A marriage license was issued this afternoon to Samuel Hiner and Leila E. Thrall.

MAY BE WORK OF INCENDIARY

Developments Today Indicate That Allen Daniels' Home May Have Been Set on Fire.

MAN SEEN ON FRONT PORCH

First Thought to Have Started From Wall Light, But This is Later Discredited.

Rumors of incendiarism have been heard today following the fire last night at the home of Allen Daniels at 416 East Seventh street and as a result the police will likely investigate although there is little chance of running down a clue. When Mr. Daniels left home yesterday morning he left a light burning in the upstairs hall and it was first thought the fire was caused by this.

Henry Easley, colored, the first man to gain entrance to the house following the alarm states that the light in the hall was still burning and that the fire at that time was confined to the northwest corner of the building. Mr. Easley states that the fire did not start from this light as was first supposed.

Neighbors of Mr. Daniels state that they saw a man on the front porch a short time before the alarm was sounded and that later this man walked across the street and hid behind a tree. People there are strongly of the opinion that the house was set on fire.

The fire was confined to the upstairs, but the house was damaged to the extent of five hundred dollars, it was estimated. The house was insured for $2,000. Practically all of the household goods were saved.

There was no one at home when the fire broke out. Mr. Daniels left the wall gas light upstairs burning in the morning when he left home. He was at home at noon and noticed that the light was burning, but did not turn it out. Because there was no other fire in the house, Mr. Daniels last night felt sure this was where the fire originated.

From descriptions of the fire he obtained from persons who saw it first, it is judged the fire started in the place where the light was. Instead of gutting the upstairs, the fire spread to the roof quickly and it was all aflame when the fire department arrived. The flames were easily extinguished.

John Demmer and family will leave the last part of the week for Lincoln, Neb., for permanent residence.

PIANO CONCERN MOVES AT NIGHT

Firm Which Stood Trial, Refusing to Pay License as Itinerant, Leaves in Darkness.

WILL BE BROUGHT BACK HERE

Case in Which Jury Disagreed Still Stands and it Will be Called Again.

Officials here are more firmly convinced than ever that the Story and Clark Piano company, which located here two months ago, was a transient firm under the law, since that organization quietly left the city last night. The firm shipped out last night and all that is left is a few bills in the windows and a fond recollection of the $50 fee that was not paid.

The firm came here and opened up for business in a room in West Second street. They advertised a closing out sale of pianos and at the time was thought to be a transient firm. An attempt was made to collect the fee, as provided under the law, but the firm refused to "come across" and an affidavit was filed by A. P. Wagoner. Mr. Wagoner was backed by the Chamber of Commerce, which believed that the home merchants should be protected against any "fly-by-night" firms, which did not pay any taxes.

At the trial the jury disagreed and nothing more has been heard of the case until today when it was found that the firm had left the city, making it more than evident that the Story and Clark firm was a transient. By the mere fact that the jury disagreed did not free Charles M. Archer, manager of the firm, from the charge and an effort will be made to bring him back here for trial.

The officers are more determined than ever to hear the case again. If Archer believed that because the jury disagreed at the hearing he was free to leave he is mistaken as the record in police court fails to show that the case against him was dismissed. Because the firm packed up and left the city the prosecutor and mayor believe they have more of a case than ever.

At the trial it was alleged that the firm was here only temporarily and

The Direct Route to Sales

When a National manufacturer advertises, he wants to sell goods.

He expects to sell them over the counter of the retailer—who either buys directly from him or through the jobber.

But the manufacturer wants to center the demands into the stores—he wants to move the goods from the dealer's shelves.

When he uses the newspapers in the dealer's own town, he goes straight to the point of attack without using any high-ways or by-ways.

He creates the demand and sends customers to the dealers who have his goods.

He also gains the good will of these dealers. The latter are anxious for sales and are naturally quite ready to co-operate with the manufacturer who makes business for them.

Shamrock, Mo.—“I feel it my duty to tell the public the condition of my health before using your medicine. I had falling, inflammation and congestion, female weakness, pains in both sides, backaches and bearing down pains, was short of memory, nervous, impatient, passed sleepless nights, and had neither strength nor energy. There was always a fear and dread in my mind, I had cold, nervous, weak spells, hot flashes over my body. I had a place in my right side that was so sore that I could hardly bear the weight of my clothes. I tried medicines and doctors, but they did me little good, and I never expected to get out again. I got Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Blood Purifier, and I certainly would have been in grave or in an asylum if your medicines had not saved me. But now I can work all day, sleep well at night, eat anything I want, have no hot flashes or weak, nervous spells. All pains, aches, fears and dreads are gone, my house, children and husband are no longer neglected, as I am almost entirely free of the bad symptoms I had before taking your remedies, and all is pleasure and happiness in my home.”—Mrs. JOSIE HAM, R. Miller Should Talk Increasing of Wheat Acreage With Farmer

W. H. Marshall, secretary of the Southwestern Millers' Club, takes a look into the future and gives the millers some good advice as to a propaganda to be started for increased wheat acreage for next year, in the following:

The real stress for wheat for European requirements will occur on next crop, and for several crops thereafter. American wheat producers, also American flour manufacturers, will be depended upon more for wheat and flour than they have ever been, and the opportunity to so firmly establish American products, both raw and manufactured that they can not be displaced, will be on hand. The first and most important step toward preparation is the production of a large crop of wheat. The more wheat we produce the more of the great money-producing staple will the American farmer have and the more opportunity for the American miller to wedge in his manufacture—in short, the more general prosperity.

A medium crop of wheat will leave our shores so rapidly that American millers will miss the greatest opportunity they have ever had of establishing themselves abroad. From a farmer's point of view he can not possibly produce a crop that will be in such active demand at good, strong prices as will be wheat.

The miller is the one who should take up the matter of increasing the wheat crop with the farmers. Every lover of prosperity, matters not his business, should and no doubt will

The second annual Arlington Horse-show and home coming will be held in Arlington, October 6, 1914. A meeting was held at Downey's Garage Saturday night and the committees were named.

Stanley, poultry house by Sampson Poultry Co., Business building, by N. R. Farlow, barn by McFall Bros., and residences by Mrs. Elihu Price and Jerry Brown.

chime in, but for fear activities of the general public will be too late for effect, millers should see to this important question at once. Millers are the proper couriers and should seek every known means to encourage farmers to raise the very largest crop of wheat imaginable next year, and the time to begin is now. Farmers should be made to understand there will be a world of hungry mouths depending upon them that they can not afford to risk poor seed, nor improper seed bed, nor can they afford to spare space for other crops that can be put to wheat. They should know the truth—that wheat will yield them a large return on next crop, a return not to be equalled by the variety of crops ordinarily depended upon.

Farmers can largely increase acreage. Many of them can increase more than 100 per cent. There is no danger of their being too much increase in wheat acreage. The danger is the increase will be too small, at best.

The demand for American wheat and flour on next crop can be increased by probably 200 per cent and will be taken at good, strong prices. Such a demand will not be met in its entirety by American farmers. But it is the part of good business for every farmer to supply as much of the demand as he possibly can, and it is also the part of good business for every American miller to begin an immediate crusade for the largest acreage of wheat ever sown.

TO DARKEN HAIR APPLY SAGE TEA

A few applications of Sage Tea and Sulphur brings back its vigor, color, gloss and thickness.

Common garden sage brewed into a heavy tea with sulphur and alcohol added, will turn gray, streaked and faded hair beautifully dark and luxuriant, remove every bit of dandruff, stop scalp itching and falling hair. Just a few applications will prove a revelation if your hair is fading, gray or dry, scraggly and thin. Mixing the Sage Tea and Sulphur recipe at home, though, is troublesome. An easier way is to get the ready-to-use tonic, costing about 50 cents a large bottle at drug stores, known as "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy," thus avoiding a lot of fuss.

While wispy, gray, faded hair is not sinful, we all desire to retain our youthful appearance and attractiveness. By darkening your hair with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur, no one can tell, because it does it so naturally, so evenly. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning all gray hairs have disappeared, and, after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy, soft and luxuriant.

GERMAN LOOKOUT TOWER

From this tower on top of one of the mountains in the Vosges range, near Howald, Germany, the kaiser's lookouts can observe the movements of the French at a great distance. The tower, which was erected after the war of 1870, is about twenty-five miles from Strassburg, Alsace-Lorraine.

can get their lines to hold they will be able to reform their most shattered columns and make attempt to assume the offensive. This however, is just what the French are trying to prevent but all accounts today showed conclusively that the German retreat had lost most of its force and that the French pursuit was encountering a resistance that compelled respect.

The Germans are now using their artillery all along the line to protect their rear. The consequences are that the losses of the allies are again mounting. But it is stated that the spirit of the French keeps high and that they continue to attack heavily entrenched positions with an utter disregard for danger.

It is estimated by the officers of the general staff that Russia has already captured one-sixth of the active Austrian artillery. The latest captures were 309 cannon and 8,000 men at Rawa Ruska with a mass of war materials that has not yet sent to the rear.

Best Points of Soldiers' Uniforms Being Adopted by Fashion Makers

BY MARGARET MASON
(Written for United Press.)

The Autumn maid is military mad. Her Autumn clothes are military made; In frogs and buttons she'll be fiercely clad And yards and yards of shiny golden braid. She'll lay dire siege to every fellow's heart, Till he surrenders to her dashing charms; And then a captive to her warlike art.

At her command he'll gladly "Present Arms!"

New York, Sept. 15.—Dressmakers and tailors won't have any chance to soldier on the job, even though there is a big demand for martial apparel. All fashionable females are adapting to their own sartorial uses the best points of the uniforms of the warring nations.

To be sure, you can't tell where my lady's sympathy lies by the way she is dressed with beautiful disregard for the fitness of things or else a strict adherence to President Wilson's neutrality advice she is apt to wear a Uhlan's cape over a Russian tunic or a Cossack's coat of Prussian blue.

Coat dresses fastening across the front of the coat effect with highly ornamental military frogs of black silk braid are very smart and almost invariably show the new military collar.

Many of the long skirted Cossack coats or Redingote suits have two rows of brass buttons down their fronts and are girdled in with belts like those Tommy Atkins wears.

The dashing military capes are perhaps the most stunning when they are developed in the blue with a scarlet lining and a glint of a brass button or two like our very own U. S. A. fighting boys wear.

The penchant for gold braid, however, cannot be blamed entirely on the war along with the cost of living for it takes the form of craving for all sorts of metalized trimmings and embroideries worn on street costumes as well as on evening dress. Evening gowns, by the way, are mere wisps of net or lace and chiffon picked out with gold or silver threads, a spangle or two, or a crushed velvet girdle to lend them stability.

One of the wierdest of the wierd evening toilettes on record was glimpsed at a recent theatrical opening. It bore all the earmarks of an exclusive Parisian creation, even if it did look like Paul Poiret with acute indigestion.

The bodice—what there was of it—was worn sans corset and was a shapeless bag affair of black satin sprinkled with large, yellow roses. Hitched on to this at the hip line with a heading was a full ankle length skirt of yellow crepe meteor.

The bodice was not content with being cut low and V-shaped in front and back but was cut away also to a depth of about five inches under the arms. Absolutely sleeveless, it was held on the wearer by shoulder straps of wide black tulle pleating that looked for all the world like a marine neck ruche cut into two parts.

Naturally, the stage held little of the audience's attention.

A chic New York matron has just returned from Paris without her baggage but with the fashionable intelligence that Basques aren't being worn at all in Paris these days.

Cossack coats and redingotes, however, are the order of the day and promise to hold good throughout the winter.

Big hats also are seen on every head, all with a flat feather trimming. Single sprays of Paradise laid around the brim is the favorite trimming among the French belles, such feathers being allowed in France. But on the models to be worn into American ports—where on entering one must leave behind all hopes of Paradise—ostrich feather, sprays are used instead.

Skirts are all much fuller and brazenly boast of their increased width by being openly gathered on to their waist lines. All shades and tipples are winning colors. Many of the Russian coats are finished with wide bands of fur on their edges but this certainly is Russian it is a bit too much for us.

Here's a "Fly-by-Night."

Some Rushville merchants were disposed to stand back with their hands in their pockets and criticize and others even put on one of those little stage smiles when an effort was made through the Chamber of Commerce August 3 to make Charles M. Archer, Indiana manager of the Story & Clark Piano company, pay a license fee as an itinerant merchant, according to the law, when he opened a piano house here in July.

This is one of the worst evils that the small city has to contend with. The law now on the statute books was fashioned to take care of such cases as the one which developed here. "Fly-by-night" concerns slip into a small county seat city, sell their wares and when they are gone the purchaser has no one to turn to if the goods are not what they were guaranteed to be. The taxpayers pay the freight. The itinerant who slips in gets all of the advantages that the merchant who lives here the year around gets. The itinerant pays nothing for them. Meanwhile the merchant pays taxes according to his investment.

This Story & Clark incident furnishes an excellent example. This was truly a "fly-by-night" concern as past history of it proved and as the Chamber of Commerce contended. Last night the local branch of the Story & Clark firm disappeared just as an early morning dew disappears before a hot sun. Last night the room in West Second street which was occupied by the concern had a number of pianos in it. This morning the room was bare. It's a strange thing that this concern had to live up to its reputation. Yes, it flew by night, but why?

But the jury, overpowered by that argument of "beyond reasonable doubt" did not feel that the state had proved Story & Clark were itinerant merchants. It just had to disagree in spite of evidence to the contrary. Carl Behr, owner of the room, testified that the company had rented the room by verbal contract and had paid thirty dollars in advance. The state showed bills to prove that Story & Clark had advertised piano sales in other cities and later moved out. The branch that was here came from Shelbyville. Not an itinerant? Could any better evidence be produced?

The defense set forth a long line of talk about intending to locate here permanently, about how the manager had attempted to find a more suitable location for his business but had failed. Was it shown that the manager had made such an attempt? Did he prove his good faith by renting the room he occupied any length of time? No. The jury took his word for it. Of course, it was to his interest to make such assertions. It was a case of dollars and cents. And so it was with Rushville.

But those who were convinced as to just what sort of a business Story & Clark were engaged in knew that time would prove that the concern was just what it was alleged to be on the affidavit. But it is not too late to bring the manager back here and make him pay the fee. Would he attempt to deny it now?

A Great Problem.

Whatever attitude the citizens of Rushville may take toward the coming Boys' Friend Campaign there is one thing each one must admit; namely, Mr. Conner has championed a great proposition when he announces that he will present to the people a "Sane Solution of the Boy Problem." He may, or he may not, have seen Professor Fiske's statement on this matter. At any rate we wish to call the people's attention to this educator's word of warning, namely:

"There is a call for boy-works as such to go to the bottom of the subject, because of the marked tendency of much of "boy club work" to degenerate into mere frolic, with little intelligent effort toward any definite goal. Many boys' clubs are simply schemes with the modish aim of keeping the boys out of worse mischief and giving them a mild dose of boy's play as their sated appetites will be content with, while the easily satisfied parents complacently acquiesce—for the home, meanwhile is peaceful, and the boys are safe at the church."

If Mr. Conner is simply coming with his helpers to play with our boys and to organize some sort of a club he had as well pass us by, for we have had experiences on that line; but if in connection with his work with boys he is coming with a "heart burning message" to the men and women of the city then he is going to "the bottom of the subject" and merits thoughtful hearing. The reports from his work in other cities are to the effect that he is a "stirrer-up of the boy's dad."

PRESIDENT FACES
A GIGANTIC TASK

Returns From Week End Vacation
Today to Prepare "War Tax"
Bill Democrats Will Support.

OPPOSITION TO ANY TAX BILL

(By United Press.)
Washington, Sept. 15.—President Wilson arrived here today at eleven o'clock from Cornish, N. H., from his week end vacation. The launching of an internal revenue "war tax" bill which will get undivided Democratic support was President Wilson's prime task upon his return here.

Democratic Leader Underwood of the house and Democratic chieftains favoring and opposing the proposed three per cent tax on freight conferred at the White House. An announcement of the president's views was expected later today. Definite action is planned at a caucus of the house Democrats tonight.

The president faced the job of practically deciding the taxable items himself, although in his "war tax" address to congress he "left the details" to the two houses. Increasing opposition in his party to passage of any tax bill at all was regarded as a serious insurgent movement.

RHEUMATISM

Physicians Believe a Genuine Remedy For the Disease Has Been Found.

Rheuma, the wonderful rheumatism remedy sold by F. B. Johnson & Co., and all druggists, gives quicker and more lasting relief than other remedies costing many times as much.

Rheuma gets at once into the blood and purifies it, allowing it to feed freely into the veins and arteries and passes the deadly poisonous secretions into the bowels and kidneys, from which they are quickly thrown off in a natural, healthy way.

Read what a reputable physician says about Rheuma: "I have made a most careful investigation of the formula employed in the manufacture of Rheuma, and I heartily recommend it as a remedy for all forms of rheumatism, gout, and complications arising from neglect of these diseases in their early stages. On the basis of the formula used alone, I find Rheuma far in advance of the methods generally employed in the treatment of rheumatism, and altogether different in composition from the remedies usually prescribed."

This should give any sufferer from rheumatism confidence in trying Rheuma. It is so inexpensive you cannot afford to do without it.

Health--How to Preserve It
Disease--How to Prevent It

Prepared for the United Press by Dr. J. N. Hurty
State Health Commissioner

(Dr. Hurty will answer questions on prevention of disease, hygiene and sanitation. Questions requiring a personal answer cannot be considered. To avoid delay, address all questions direct to the UNITED PRESS ASSOCIATIONS, 36½ West Washington St., Indianapolis. Questions may be sent to THE DAILY REPUBLICAN if preferred.)

During the last school year in Indiana 1082 school children died. How many will die during the coming school year? The answer is not hard to find. The number will be not less than 1082, and possibly a few more. Any how, each school day will see an average of six dead school children in Indiana. In addition to this slaughter during the coming school year, thousands of school children will have head-aches, tooth-aches, ear-aches, eye ache, stomach-ache and the Lord only knows how many more aches. And the Lord knows, and we know too, that all of these aches which the helpless ones will endure, will be due to the ignorance and neglect of parents of the state.

Over 300,000 children will have "colds." Hundreds will have diphtheria, hundreds will have scarlet fever, some thousands will have whooping cough and measles. Chicken-pox will take a whack at them. Some will develop astigmatism and eye strain. Thousands will have lice and itch. And the pains, aches and inefficiency, which will attend the dyspepsia engendered by bad food and bad teeth will be enough to wring the hearts of war making emperors and kings. And just think of it, over 100,000 school children will not have a decent place to go to obey the calls of nature, but must use horrid privies, some of them so awfully horrid as to defy description. Some of these school children, many in fact, will be compelled to drink water from dug wells in which pollution reeks. Water from wells in which dead field mice, dead toads, dead rabbits, worms and bugs may be found.

This picture is not overdrawn. There is no exaggeration. Every teacher and every health officer knows the above does not set forth the complete story. All has not been told; for nothing has yet been said of the physical and mental suffering which will be experienced on account of adenoids, diseased hearts, deformed spines, diseased glands and certain skin diseases. Let no one dare to say all of these diseases and conditions do not exist in our schools. Let no one dare to sneeze at these truths. Each and all of the diseases and conditions here catalogued can be found in more or less degree in every one of the 92 counties of the state. And more and worse, one can find in every county, business men, farmers and others, who have opposed and will continue to oppose, the protection of the innocents from these evils on the score of economy. If it is economy to let this awful waste of child life, child efficiency and child happiness continue, then let us away with economy. Talking about economy, it is true that a heavy percentage of our school monies is wasted, foolishly thrown away, through continuing and actually creating conditions of ill health and disease in our schools.

Every illy ventilated school house, every insufficiently or wrongly lighted school house, every unevenly and insufficiently warmed school house, every unclean school house, every school house that is not provided with the proper number of adjustable seats and desks, every school house not furnished with an abundant supply of pure drinking water, and every school house not supplied with indoor closets or sanitary outside privies, separate for the sexes, is an abomination. More; all such school houses are monuments to the ignorance and extravagance, yes, wickedness, of the people of Indiana.

DR. J. N. HURTY.

(Tomorrow Dr. Hurty will explain the Indiana Child's Creed in a plea for better health for the children.—Ed.)

DEMOCRATS ELECT
GOVERNOR IN MAINE

Official Returns Today Show That O.
C. Curtis Defeated Republican
Candidate 2,000 Votes.

PROGRESSIVES POOR THIRD

(By United Press.)
Portland, Mo., Sept. 15.—In one of the closest elections the state has ever known the Democrats yesterday election Oakley C. Curtis governor. A number of voters who supported Roosevelt in the 1912 election flocked to the polls to back the Republican ticket, but their number was not enough to down the Democrats.

Owing to the exceeding closeness of the vote no one could be at all confident of the result until the last ballot had been counted. The returns from all the cities, towns and plantations today however, gave Curtis, Democrat, 58,877; William T. Haines, Republican, 56,179; and Gardner, Progressive 17, 147.

The four congressmen, Asher S. Hinds, John A. Peters and Frank E. Guernsey, Republicans, and Daniel J. McGillicuddy, Dem., were re-elected.

The returns indicate that the Democrats have made gains in the legislature. The representative district reporting have elected 46 Democrats, 42 Republicans and two Progressives; a reversal of the Democratic and Republican count of two years ago, while the progressives at that time reported throughout the state appears to be about the same as two years ago.

DILLON FIGHTS BROWN TONIGHT

Hoosier Bearcat Confident That he Will Win and by Knockout Route at That

THREE PREVIOUS MEETINGS

Weights in at 160 Pounds Meeting Weight Required by Opponent. Big Card at Vincennes

(By United Press.) Vincennes, Ind., Sept. 15.—"I'll try to knock him out."

Jack Dillon repeated this now trite statement this afternoon when asked what he would do with Knockout Brown in their ten-round bout tonight. Dillon makes that statement before every fight, and he means it, too. The Hoosier Bearcat goes into every fight with the intention of knocking out his opponents.

Brown will tonight meet Jack on the terms he has waited for some years and he will have his opportunity to make good the oft-repeated declaration that he could whip Dillon at 160 pounds. In their three previous fights, they have always met at catch weights, with Dillon weighing two to four pounds more than Brown. Dillon consented to weigh in at 160 pounds at 3 o'clock this afternoon in order that he might silence his antagonist.

Their three fights to date have been at Memphis, eight rounds, referee decision to Dillon; Springfield, O., twenty rounds, referee decision to Dillon, and Terre Haute, ten rounds, newspaper decision to Dillon.

Dillon complained this afternoon that the middleweights were fighting shy of him. He had been meeting heavier men just to keep busy, he said, and the result was that a general impression had got out he could not make 158 pounds.

"I'll make 151 pounds to meet any good middleweights," he said today, "and I'll post a $500 forfeit to meet any one of the following at that weight" and he named McGorty, Clabby, Gibbons and Chip.

"But I'd rather meet Chip," he added.

Dillon said he preferred to meet clever men than "tough" fellows. He said he had solved the clever men and that they could not withstand his smashing blows.

Vincennes heralded this card tonight as the biggest in the city's history. Jack arrived here Saturday with his trainers and his cane, and since then has been the center of attraction.

IS NEUTRAL AFTER ENGLISH WARNING

Turkey Decides Definitely Today to Stay Out of Fight Following Threat From England.

TURN OF WAR ALSO FACTOR

(By United Press.)

Constantinople, via Rome, Sept. 15.—Turkey has finally decided to remain neutral and will not support Germany, according to reports current in official circles here today. This action was decided on following a straight warning from England that if Turkey participated in the war she would be eliminated for ever as an independent nation. The news of France British victories in the recent fighting was also a factor.

It is stated that in return for her neutrality, Turkey will demand that the powers recognize her right to abolish the extra-territorial conventions heretofore given to the powers.

WOMEN MAKING MARKET SUCCESS

Are on Job at Five O'clock in Morning Three Days a Week Serving Coffee and Eats

MORE PRODUCTS FROM FARM

Money They Take in Goes Towards Suffrage Organization—Aid to Foreign Farmers

(By United Press.)

Gary, Ind., Sept. 15.—Women of the Gary Civic Club are helping to make the city market a success by pledging themselves to come down three times a week at market hours—which means being on the job at 5 a. m. to serve coffee and sandwiches to farmers. In return the farmers have promised to bring in butter and eggs and other commodities of the farm which have been very scarce to date. The decision of the club women was taken a few days ago after they had tried one morning of it. They made such a fine go of their booth and the farmers appreciated their "city" wares so much, that they decided to stay on the job.

And what do you suppose the money that they take in goes for? Votes for women!

The Civic Service Club started as a suffrage organization. It plodded along until the city market proposition came up and the club gained some prominence by promise of hearty support, for Gary women were paying extra for it. Then the ladies got behind the suffrage edition which the Gary Tribune put out for them making a very creditable showing. Lastly they came to the bat with this most substantial way of making good their promise to aid the markets.

Foreign speaking farmers felt their help most keenly. Some of them could not talk good English, and so the suffrage club members took their vegetables among the crowds and by explaining how to cook the unusual vegetables and by dint of persuasion disposed of entire wagon loads of truck. By nine o'clock in the morning of their first day at it, the club members were tired—but sold out.

THAT NEW FEAR UPON OSTEND

Constant Dread Everywhere That Germans Will Drop Bomb Out Of Air From A Zeppelin.

CORRESPONDENT'S EXPERIENCE

Nothing But Pitch Dark, But Tramp Of Troops And No Light But The Stars

(By William G. Shepherd.) (U. P. Staff Correspondent.)

Ostend, Belgium, August. 29. (By Mail to New York)—The new fear is on Ostend. The streets are pitch dark, although it is early evening. Throughout the night there is the blink, blink, blink of signal lights and the tramp, tramp, tramp of soldiers' feet.

Stand out in the middle of the street, look up at the stars in the blue, soft night sky and you'll understand what this new fear is. Stand out there with the hundreds of men, women and children and watch the night sky with them, and suddenly it will welcome you like an awful shock—the Zeppelin chill. It's the newest human worry; the latest mode in terrors; the twentieth century blood-ice. And it is, as George Cohan might say, "SOME worry".

I felt it first at 9 o'clock this evening when our boat from Ostend drew up at the magnificent Ostend dock in total darkness. Men with lanterns lighted the way of passengers and porters.

"We don't want anybody to see our lights" a marine explained. A whole city trying to hide itself from something that might be flitting about among the stars! The impossibility of a city doing such a thing struck me immediately.

"The Zeppelins have been throwing bombs on Antwerp, sixty miles from here," continued the marine "and sixty miles is only a little over an hour's run for a Zeppelin".

I looked up at the stars. Was everyone of them shining? Or were some of them hiding by the black of one of the great Mauretianas of the air? Not a hulk did I see and I shook off my first touch, my baptism, of the Zeppelin shudder.

A three block run through the dark street started it again. The houses were all dark, by military orders. But the Ostenders had not gone to bed. They were all, it seemed, in the streets looking upward. I looked up also and the Zeppelin chill hit me again. I suppose millions of credulous people looked at the great comet four years ago with something of the same feeling. But this feeling is stronger. We aren't all of us sure there are comets that might hit us and bring the world to an end, but we don't know in Ostend that there are Zeppelins and that they drop bombs which may bring our own particular world to an end in one second.

Later I went about the dark streets of this once gayest shore resort of dead dark. Passing a cafe in the main street I heard strange subdued sounds and suddenly discovered it was the massed whispering in the darkness of scores of men and women seated at a little sidewalk table under the cafe canopies. The waiters were feeling their way about, serving drinks the best they could under the strange circumstances. I took a seat amid the whispering company.

I heard the word Zeppelin whispered at every hand.

"The English have brought a dirigible to fight the Zeppelins," whispered one voice, nearly.

"Yes," returned another whisper "but the Zeppelin have gun decks on top of the gas bag and carry two great rifles. What chances does an English balloon stand against one of the Zeppelin fighters, fitted like a battleship."

While all this whispering was going on, I suddenly recalled how proudly we 20th century folks had watched Zeppelin in his every move of conquering the air. But, after all, what has he done but added a new horror to warfare, a new chill for humanity.

Little children and mothers will say their prayers in Ostend tonight and then be awake, for it's hard to believe that even the good God can save you from bombs that drop from the sky. Ostend lies tonight, helpless even the great guns of the English battleship in the harbor can not insure Ostend against Zeppelins.

Viva, Zeppelin! Inventor of a new fear.

BAN ON WOODEN CARS.

(By United Press.)

New York, Sept. 15.—Beginning today, the recent order of the Public Service Commission, prohibiting the use of wooden cars for transportation of passengers on electrically driven trains, goes into effect. The Long Island railroad was the hardest hit by the new order. It had to dispose of many wooden passenger coaches following the commission's decision.

BIG-EATERS GET KIDNEY TROUBLE

Take a glass of Salts before breakfast if your Back hurts or Bladder bothers you.

The American men and women must guard constantly against Kidney trouble, because we eat too much and all our food is rich. Our blood is filled with uric acid which the kidneys strive to filter out, they weaken from overwork, become sluggish; the eliminative tissues clog and the result is kidney trouble, bladder weakness and a general decline in health.

When your kidneys feel like lumps of lead; your back hurts or the urine is cloudy, full of sediment or you are obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night; if you suffer with sick headache or dizzy, nervous spells, acid stomach, or you have rheumatism when the weather is bad, get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate clogged kidneys; to neutralize the acids in the urine so it no longer is a source of irritation, thus ending bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure, makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water beverage, and belongs in every home, because nobody can make a mistake by having a good kidney flushing any time.

GERMAN RIGHT WING TOO FAST

This Is Held Primary For Confusion Into Which Plans For March On Paris Were Thrown

OTHER WING DIDN'T ARRIVE

Defeat Of Part Of Kaiser's Army Not Due To Allies Strategy But To Unfortunate Happenings

(By United Press.)

New York, September 15.—It is now apparent that the primary cause of the confusion into which the German plan of campaign before Paris has been thrown, was due to the German right wing overrunning the rest of the Kaiser's advancing front.

The news that the German right wing reached Provins gives the key to the mystery. This town is fifty miles north east of Paris, and dominates the highways which the German center and left would have used in proceeding to envelop Paris from the south.

The German right got to Provins too soon. It is phenomenal speed from the Belgian frontier to Paris seems to be unchecked after reaching the capital and carried it down the roads and across the Marne river to join the German's coming from the Northeast at Provins. But, the Germans from the Northeast didn't arrive. They were held in check in the Catalauni fields district, where Attila and his Huns were defeated in the fifth century.

The speedy German right, therefore, became isolated. The Paris garrison emerged and fell on its flank and during the present week it has been forced back until it now is fifty miles north east of Paris near Soissons.

That the defeat of the Germans was due to deep strategy by the allies is refuted by the frank admission of the Paris and London officials report of the week that the movements of the Germans were very puzzling.

They were puzzling because of a serious error in calculating the time necessary for Germany's center and left armies to swing around Paris. Somebody among the German higher officials seems to have blundered badly and German strategy is now seriously affected for it must rearrange its objectives. The German attack on Verdun is an attempt to open the doorway into France from the east alternative invasion route to the unfortunately chosen way through Belgium. Verdun is the northernmost point of the famous fortification that runs along the Meuse on the East forty miles to Toul and after a forty mile strategic opening to Epinal, continues in a series of strong forts along the Moselle river to the Swiss frontier. The capture of Verdun, if it were followed by the other military frontier works to Toul might seriously interfere with the French invasion of Lorraine and would be of great benefit to German lines of communication. The nearest railway approaches from Germany to the present field of operations runs through Verdun.

Russia's effort to recommence her march to Berlin has again met with a reverse. The Germans are shoving the Slavs out of east Prussia at about the same speed that they themselves are retiring in France. The battle at Lyck reported as an important German victory occurred only fifty miles inside the east Prussian boundary, and Russian Poland is again in danger of serious invasion. The confidence of the German general staff in their ability to hold off the Russian's advance for an appreciable time, with second line troops, seems to have been well founded—much more so than the belief that the offensive in France could be continued indefinitely.

Biggest War Center In New York Down in Vasil Pop's Restaurant

BY CARLTON TEN EYCK
(Written for United Press.)

New York, Sept. 15.—Down in Vasil Pop's restaurant, in Morris street, just off turbulent, traffic clogged Bowling Green, is about the biggest "war center" in little old New York, or any other spot in the United States, for matter of that. "Pop's" full name is Vasil Pop Stephanoff. His little cafe has for years been the gathering place of the thousands of Bulgarians, and many of the subjects from other Balkan states, who live in New York.

Now the old chetniks and the veterans who won distinction at Adrianople, Chatalja and in Thrace under Savaff, Demetrief and Ivanoff do not profess to be up with the times and to have knowledge of what their governments are doing; but they do know what the feeling of masses is in Bulgaria regarding any possible alignment in the event of the Balkan States forced into the fighting.

As these war-scarred fighting men sit about the little tables sipping their molasses thick, black coffee or crude cognac, they voice the sentiment of the masses. That sentiment is all strongly against any alliance with the hated, once dreaded Turks. These soldiers, who still have many fights left in them, believe that if Turkey should be drawn into the war and if Bulgaria should align herself with the Sultan's Mohammedan hordes, there would follow revolution throughout the kingdom.

True it is, they argue, that Bulgarians feel they have a real grievance against Serbia and Greece, but one thing must not be overlooked. While the Balkan people may fight among each other, they have learned, say the veterans, that Turkey is the common foe, and as the common foe must be met with a united Balkans if the Balkans are to keep the Turkish yolk from the Balkan shoulders.

"It would never do," declared Varman Snarotoff, a frequenter of Vasil Pop's cafe "The Bulgarian king may want to align himself with Turkey, but he would be unwise and his ministers would be unwise to do so. I cannot believe that Bulgaria would not join in with Greece, Roumania, Serbia and Montenegro against Turkey should the Turks attempt hostile action against one or all of the Balkan States. It is obvious that should Bulgaria join Turkey against the others, and Turkey and the Austro-German forces be victorious against the Allies, Bulgaria would be supreme in the Balkan region—until Turkey decided to crush Bulgaria. No, I cannot think that Bulgaria will do other than join with the other Balkan States in a possible war with Turkey."

"Twilight sleep"—that wonderful discovery in Freiburg, Germany eight years ago by which a woman can give birth to a baby without suffering any pain—is being practiced regularly in New York and is claimed to be a decided success. At the Jewish Maternity Hospital one hundred and eighteen women are said to have given birth to children in the past few months while under the "Twilight Sleep" treatment and not one of them suffered the least nor did they feel any evil effects of the treatment later.

What is "Twilight Sleep?" Briefly this: A hypodermic injection of the drug scopolamin given when the first real labor pains are felt, and repeated at intervals until the birth of the child.

A young physician who studied at Freiburg, Germany, where the treatment was discovered, is in charge of the work here. His great success had led to a movement which may result in the founding of a great maternity hospital here, where the "Twilight Sleep" treatment can be given. This treatment is declared by some prominent physicians here to be the greatest boon womankind has ever known.

The woman does not suffer any pain whatsoever under this treatment. At the first indication of pain, she is placed in a darkened room and also in a quiet part of the building. This is deemed necessary to aid the drug. The first injection is then given her and she gradually drifts into semi-unconsciousness.

After two or three injections of the drug she is absolutely immune to pain. She cannot feel any pain at all. At the same time there is no interference with the muscular contractions necessary to bring about the birth.

Consequently the mother awakes to find her baby with her and she has no memory of pain to cloud her happiness. The administering of the drug is a very delicate operation and requires skillfulness and experience. Just enough of the drug must be given to the patient to banish subjective pain. Too much of the drug, however, will stop the birth. It therefore requires years of study to prepare a doctor to administer this treatment.

Hero of Liege, A Prisoner of War, Writes King Albert

(By United Press.)

Antwerp, via The Hague, Sept. 15.—A prisoner of war in a distant German fortress, his health utterly shattered by his trying experiences, General Leman, the "hero of Liege," has written King Albert regretting that his effort to die in the ruins of his forts was frustrated by the Germans who took him from Fort Lonsin.

In his letter to the king, the General apparently confirms the report that he blew up the magazine of the fort in order to prevent the ammunition falling into the hands of the enemy. The letter in part says:

"Your majesty will learn with grief that Fort Lonsin has been blown up and that the greater part of the garrison was buried in the ruins. That I did not lose my life was due to the fact that I was drawn from the ruins while I was suffocating from the gas arising from the burning power.

"I am a prisoner and physically shattered by the explosion. I surrendered neither forts nor town and I deign to ask pardon for the fire that destroyed the fort. I would willingly have given up my life better to have served Belgium and my king, but death has not been granted to me."

Hero of Engagement Is Boy Only 17 Years Old

(By United Press.)
Ostend, September 2 (By mail to New York)—On a cot in the Red Cross hospital here is one of the heroes of the war. He is Sergeant Van Der Bern of the Belgian army, and only 17 years old. He was a corporal when he started out with 29 men on a reconnoitering expedition during which he was wounded, but displayed such valor that his bravery was publicly related to all the soldiers and Van Der Bern was promoted.
Van Der Bern and his little command came suddenly upon a band of 50 Uhlans while on their expedition. Out numbered, his men turned and fled. The corporal shouted to them and dashed alone toward the Germans. The other Belgians rallied and threw themselves upon the Uhlans. Within a few minutes only Van Der Bern and two others of his command remained. Twenty-seven Belgians were dead or wounded. Within a few minutes more the corporal's companions fell, mortally wounded. Then the boy picked them up and displaying almost superhuman strength carried them to safety. As he was making his retreat burdened by the two wounded men, Van Der Bern was hit twice by German bullets. He staggered on, placed his men in charge of the Red Cross and without a word walked to headquarters and reported the engagement. Then he fell in a faint.

CARL MORRIS WILL GIVE CONCERT HERE

Rush County Boy, Now Talented Baritone Soloist, Will Sing at Christian Church Next Week.

TICKETS ARE ON SALE NOW

Carl Morris of New York, who needs no introduction to a Rushville audience, will give a concert at the Main Street Christian church next Monday evening. It has been some time since a Rush county audience has heard Mr. Morris, who is one of her native sons and of whom she is justly proud. Mr. Morris sang at the chautauqua a few years ago and was given a rousing ovation, an appreciation that deeply touched him.
The local audience will be the first one to hear him since his study abroad this summer. Mr. Morris was in Italy when the war broke out and his plans to study in Italy were cut short because he hurried home on the first steamer to avoid being stranded in Europe for any length of time. Mr. Morris studied under some of the best voice teachers in the world this summer.
The tickets for the concert, which are selling at thirty-five cents, are on sale at Hargrove & Mullin's drug store and are being sold by a number of young women of the Main Street Christian church.

ENGLAND NOT IN SEARCH OF PEACE WANTS HELP OF HEALTH OFFICER

Not Until Prussian Militarism is Crushed on Land and Sea Will She Consider Mediation

EMPHATIC POSITION TAKEN IS A STATUTE AGAINST IT

British Officials Amazed by Suggestion from United States to End War at Once

(By United Press.)
London, Sept. 15.—Until Prussian militarism is crushed for all time, both on land and on sea, England will refuse even to consider propositions of peace. That was the emphatic position taken in London today. British officials are admittedly amazed by suggestions that the United States wants to propose a compromise for the immediate ending of the war. It is felt that the position of the allies must be greatly misunderstood if it is believed that any peace proposal would even be received at this time. Were the war ended today, even though Belgium were identified and France reserved back Alsace-Lorraine, the great German fleet would remain as a menace to the peace of Europe. England is determined that this shall be the last war. Its officials, from the king down, insist that the real cause of the war was the German dream of world power. A compromise now, it is claimed would mean that at a later date, Germany would renew the attempt and this time the allies might not be able to present their present unbroken front. So it is the intention of England to fight on until Germany is forced to consent to a peace that will make her a party for all time to treaties she will be compelled to respect and not regard as "mere scraps of paper," to be disregarded at will.
The Times today commending on the outlook, declares only peace concluded in Berlin and the dispersal of the German fleet, will be acceptable to the British people. It declares that any official who would consent to any lesser humiliation of Germans could not withstand the upheaval of popular disapproval.
The agreement between the allies that peace would only be concluded by an agreement satisfactory to all, ended for all time, officials say the possibility that Germany might be able to make individual terms which would permit her to retain her present status. France wants Alsace-Lorraine back and with it the enormous indemnity that Bismark wrung from her in 1871. But even though that were offered herby Germany now, she could not accept as England and Russia have tied her hands. The same is true of any suggestions that might be made acceptable to Russia or England.
It is admitted peace may be hastened by the defeat of the Germans in France and by the crushing of the Austrians by the Russians. There has been a strong undercurrent in Germany against the war. Only in Prussia was it popular with the people. The majority of the other German states had no liking for conflict so far as the rank and file of the people was concerned. Not that Germany is on the defensive; since the attempt to take Paris has proven abortive, and above all that the losses to the Fatherland have been so enormous, there is real danger of a popular uprising which may change the present German system.
The Germans as a people seldom forgive mistakes and they are certain to consider a criminal mistake the inauguration of war that ranged almost the entire world against the German government.
Suggestions that the Kaiser may yet be forced to abdicate are made in certain quarters usually familiar with what is going on in Germany. They are as yet only suggestions but when the truth is known in Germany those making them here say they may become realities. Meanwhile the British officials quietly but emphatically say peace suggestions at present are out of the question.

State Food Commissioner Would Stop Employment of Afflicted Persons Handling Food.

Also Addresses Letter to Meat Dealers Regarding Alleged Sale of Diseased Meats.

Local stock buyers, butchers and meat dealers have received from the state food and drug inspector, H. E. Barnard, a circular letter in regard to the alleged sale of diseased meats. The letter is not designed to warn persons doing an interstate business where federal inspection of meat is strict, but is intended for those where the inspection is not very strict.
Mr. Barnard also has sent letters to all county health officers stating that it is contrary to the Indiana law for persons afflicted with disease to work in places where they are required to handle food. While there is a law against this practice, Mr. Barnard asserts that every day brings new evidence that the statute is being violated, and adds that to his personal knowledge there were six epidemics of typhoid fever in 1913 carried through the milk supply.
Mr. Barnard asks the co-operation of the county health officers in eliminating the employment of persons suffering from disease in establishments where food is sold.
Mr. Barnard has started a movement among the mayors of Indiana cities for the establishment of municipal slaughter houses, where the proper inspection of meat can be had before it is placed on the market. This would be a means of doing away with the sale of diseased meats, which is going on to a large extent throughout the state, Mr. Barnard says. He suggests that City Councils throughout the state take up the question and pass ordinances establishing municipal slaughter houses.
"The laws prohibiting the practice of selling meat that is diseased are comprehensive and efficient," Barnard said. "They only require enforcement to place the farmer who sells cholera hogs, the butcher who kills them and the dealer who retails the meat in jail or beyond the ban of decent citizenship."
"Fully 2 per cent. of the carcasses received at the Federal inspected places are thrown out because they are diseased," said Mr. Barnard. "It is estimated that, at least 10 per cent. of the dairy cows in this country are affected with tuberculosis, and it is well known that dairy stock forms a much larger proportion of the animals killed at the small local slaughter houses than at the larger establishments, under Federal inspection has been to cause the owners of diseased or suspicious looking animals to send them for slaughter to an uninspected place."

English Women Shame Men Who Don't Enlist

(By United Press.)
London, Sept. 2, (By mail to New York)—How the women of England are urging the men to fight for the Union Jack is indicated in expedients adopted in several towns recently to shame able-bodied men who have so far not answered the call. At Deal a group of pretty girls distributed white feathers to a crowd of young men, who accepted them jokingly as "favors" and wore them in their buttonholes.
They were greatly discomfited a little later when the town crier announced throughout the city that the men had been "decorated with the Order of The White Feather for shirking their duty and failing to respond to the call for defenders of the Union Jack."

FRISCO TRAIN WRECKED TODAY

Forty Persons Reported Killed When Passenger Rolls Into Creek Near Lebanon, Mo.

TRESTLE WASHED OUT CAUSE

Passengers Who Escaped Were Proficient Swimmers or Were Thrown Out on Bank by Current.

(By United Press.)
St. Louis, Mo., Sept. 15.—A Frisco passenger train bound from St. Louis to Texas points, was derailed near Lebanon, Mo., early today. All wires from Lebanon to St. Louis are down as a result of the wreck and only indirect reports, by way of Springfield, have so far been received. These reports state that at least two score persons are missing and were probably killed in the wreck, but officials here have been unable to get any confirmation.
Twenty-six bodies had been recovered in the wreckage up to noon today. Identification will be difficult because many have removed their outer garments. The injured are being cared for at Lebanon but soon will be removed to Springfield.

The train, composed of all steel cars, is said to have rolled down the embankment into a creek. Those reported dead are said to have been crushed beneath the cars or drowned.

The dead, it is said, were occupants of the chair car containing about 68 persons. Of the number only eighteen have been accounted for. The wreck is said to have been caused by the washout of the trestle over Goodwin Hollow, by a cloudburst.

The chair car near the front of the train was completely submerged, according to the telephone messages from Lebanon. Those who escaped were proficient swimmers or persons who were tossed upon the banks by the swirling current.

The Pullman cars on the rear of the train remained on the rails.

The engine crew who saw the danger only a few seconds before the trestle was reached had no chance to leap and were carried down with the engine. The engineer escaped by swimming but the fireman, pinned in the cab, is reported to have been drowned.

At the local offices of the Frisco lines, it was admitted that a wreck had occurred near Lebanon, but it was stated no confirmation of loss of life had reached the offices.

The shamrock was selected as the national emblem of Ireland because St. Patrick proved with it the doctrine of the Trinity.

DAMAGE SUIT COMPROMISED

Plaintiff in Case for $10,000 Given Judgment for $450, According to Agreement

THE DEFENDANT PAID COSTS

Bert Hobbs Agreed to Live With Wife and Was Released—Guardian Appointed for Mrs. Altmeyer.

The damage suit of Anna Harris against Floyd Miller of Carthage, ended suddenly late yesterday afternoon when a compromise was reached and the case was dismissed. The case was compromised for $450 and the defendant agreed to pay the costs. Miss Harris demanded $10,000 for injuries alleged to have been sustained when she was run down by an automobile driven by Miller at the corner of Illinois and Washington streets, Indianapolis.

The plaintiff's side of the case had been heard by the jury with the exception of one witness when the agreement was reached. The case ended very suddenly as it was expected that the defendant would fight it to the end. Several depositions were read to the jury before the case was dismissed.

Bert Hobbs, charged with fraudulent marriage, was brought in court this morning and agreed to live with his wife, who was formerly Oma Brock, if allowed to go. Judge Megee granted his request but warned him against leaving her again as he is likely to serve a year in jail. Hobbs was forced to marry the Brock girl and then refused to live with her.

The injunction suit brought by the Rushville National bank against William Helm, et al., was formally dismissed this morning and the costs paid. The bank sought to prevent a roof being built over a court way that would prevent light from coming into the directors' room. The case was settled last week but was not dismissed until this morning.

Mrs. Pink Henley was appointed guardian for Mrs. Ella Altmeyer, widow of the late George Altmeyer, by Judge Megee, following the hearing of the petition filed by James Smith. Mrs. Henley was placed under $8,000 bond. Mrs. Altmeyer was recently declared of unsound mind and is at present in an Indianapolis hospital. It was alleged that a guardian should be appointed to look after her property.

A partition was ordered in the suit brought by Lura McCrory against Wilma Churchill et al. James Clifton was appointed commissioner to sell the property involved and gave bond in the sum of $15,000.
